AN IMMENSE SEWER. Bids for Its Construction Considered Last Night. The sewers and drains committee of select council met last night in the city clerk's office, and considered the bids for the construction of a sewer system in the Fifth, Eighth, Fifteenth and Eighteenth wards in the Nineteenth sewer district, probably the largest system for which a contract has been let in this city.

The sewer as provided for in the plans and specifications is to be 2,536 feet long with 24,000 feet of house connections and the total estimated cost of City Engineer Phillips is $148,938.62. There are three bids, two of which are entirely too far above the engineer's estimate to be considered at all. One of the bids is from Homer & Quinn of Philadelphia, and Peter Kelley, of Wilkes-Barre, which are $178,549.81 and $197,763.50, respectively. The only bid which comes below the engineer's figure is that of R. A. Malone, of Lancaster, whose bid is $146,636.72, leaving a balance of $2,301.90 for the payment of inspectors. The committee didn't decide last night to recommend the awarding of the contract to anybody in particular deferring this action until just before council meeting on Thursday night. It is safe to assume, however, that the contract will be awarded to Mr. Malone.

CAPTURED BY FILIPINOS. John Jordan, of Wilkes-Barre, is in the Hands of Enemies. "According to a dispatch received from General MacArthur, the crew of the gunboat Villalobos, on which was John Jordan, of this city, has been captured by the Filipinos," says the Wilkes-Barre Times.

Mr. Jordan has been in the service for nearly six years. He was for nearly three years attached to the New York, Admiral Sampson's flagship, and was present with the fleet at the battle of Santiago. After the war with Spain he was given a three months' furlough, which he spent in this city with his parents, and at the close of his vacation reported for duty at the Brooklyn navy yard and was assigned to service in the Philippines, serving for a time on board the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, and then on the vessel left the Orient Mr. Jordan was transferred to the Baltimore and was later assigned to the Bennington, and was assigned to the Villalobos March 8. "The Villalobos, which is a wooden vessel, was built in Hong Kong in 1896. She is 290 feet long, draws nine feet of water and is of 390 tons displacement. Her armament consists of a battery of two six-pounders, two three-pounders, two one-pounders, and two Colts automatic guns. Her crew consists of forty-eight men, thirty-four white men, six Filipinos, four Chinese and four officers."

MAY BE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. Dr. George Benton Massey, of Philadelphia, Tells of Successful Treatment of Tuberculosis. By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—Dr. George Benton Massey, of 1831 Chestnut street, claims the discovery of a new method of treating tuberculosis, and he says he has effected two absolute cures. In speaking of the new method today, the doctor said:

"My process includes an enforced sterilization of the affected part. This is accomplished by the production of the electrolytic salts of mercury in the form of the mercuric chloride. The salts are then radiated through the surrounding diseased tissue from a gold electrode by a mild current of electricity. This operation must be repeated at least twice a week. A small puncture is made in the skin of the neck, under a cooling spray, which deprives that portion of the body of all sensation. The opening is made with a sharp needle directly over the enlarged gland. Through this opening a tiny gold tube is inserted, and through the tube, which is in reality a hollow needle, a drop of quicksilver is injected. This quicksilver is immediately changed into electrolytic salts of mercury by the application of a very slight electric current, which is passed through the needle. The salts are an antiseptic and by the action of the electric current are radiated through the diseased area.

"This treatment will usually effect a cure within six weeks. A desirable result of this method of treatment is the fact that patients are not obliged to desist from their ordinary duties." Dr. Massey recently explained his method to the electro-therapeutic society in New York.

September 29. He claims that at the hearing two men testified to having sent a boy to buy ale from him on September 27, or two days after the warrant was issued. New Trial Asked For. Major Everett Warren, representing the Scranton Railway company, yesterday filed reasons for a new trial in the case of the Delaware and Hudson against the Scranton Railway company. Wolf-gang secured a verdict of $100.70 last week for the loss of a bakery wagon, demolished in a collision with one of the company's cars, on Penn avenue. One of the reasons is that the members of the jury visited the scene of the accident without the permission of the court and unbeknown to counsel for the defense.

CITY'S CONTENTION. The city's contention is that Poplar street already extends across the tracks, inasmuch as the maps of the Lackawanna Coal and Iron company locate the land to the city, the street crosses the Delaware and Hudson right of way and also by reason of the fact that a sewer has been constructed, crossing the right of way, and emptying into the Lackawanna.

Judge Archbald, in his opinion, after citing the facts in the case, contends that the map referred to was for the purpose of description only and that it is not intended to limit the grant, but merely to locate it and show the surroundings.

The ordinance laying out the sewer, he says, accepts the street as far as the city is concerned, but the recognition of this sewer by the company was not necessarily an acceptance by it of the street on which it was laid. The permission to construct this sewer was for that purpose only and not for the opening of a sixty-foot street across the tracks.

"The city has the right to repair this sewer," says the judge, "but no larger privilege than this is to be implied." The judge affirms that the city has a perfect right to open a street across the right of way of the company, providing the proper steps are taken. These proper steps have not been taken, he says, and therefore the company is entitled to have its rights protected by injunction. Continuing the opinion says:

ACTION NOT SUFFICIENT. It was suggested at the hearing that an ordinance would be put through council removing this, and the final disposition of the case would, however, be a disappointment. The ordinance which was passed Aug. 31 last amounts to nothing in that direction. It consists merely of a recital of some of the facts which bear upon the case, and a declaration in opposition to the contention of the railroad company, that the street had been opened by virtue of them. It would, of course, do nothing to dispose of the controversy by which the city is confronted, but it is not to be done by any such conciliatory act. Nothing short of that which has been pointed out above will do. To permit the proper steps to be taken in case the city authorities, after falling of this opinion, are so inclined, the final decree will be a reasonable time, but unless they avail themselves of this opportunity, no doubt, of the crossing in opposition to the rights of the railroad company must be restrained.

The following order is then appended: Let this case stand over for thirty days, within which time, if an action is taken by the city of Scranton to open the street in controversy according to the statutes in such case made and provided, the bill will be dismissed on payment of costs. If it does not, let a decree be entered awarding an injunction as prayed for in the bill, with costs to be paid by said city. By the Court. R. W. Archbald, P. J.

The necessary legal steps referred to by the judge are the passage of an ordinance declaring the street open and providing for the appointment of viewers to assess any damage which might be caused by the opening of the street. The ordinance declaring the street open has already been passed, as mentioned above, and it only remains for council to provide for the appointment of viewers in case they wish the street opened.

THE CITY HAS NOT PROCEEDED LEGALLY

OPINION OF JUDGE ARCHBALD IN POPLAR STREET CASE.

Says That Until the City Takes the Proper Steps to Have the Street Opened the Company's Rights Must Be Protected—Construction of Sewer Did Not Open the Street. City Given Thirty Days in Which to Provide for Opening of Street as Provided by Law.

Judge R. W. Archbald, in an opinion handed down yesterday, on the existing differences between the Delaware and Hudson company and the city of Scranton, opened the Poplar street crossing, decided that that thoroughfare does not extend across the tracks of the company. He gives the city thirty days in which to take the proper steps to open the street, and says that if these steps are not taken within that time, the restraining injunction granted the company will be made permanent.

The facts in the case are well known. The city took steps to open Poplar street across the Delaware and Hudson tracks in order to afford means of ingress to the Scranton Bolt and Nut works. The railroad company immediately erected a fence just the other side of the tracks, barring all entrance to the Bolt and Nut company's plant. This was torn down by order of the mayor and was again erected by the company.

It was torn down a second time by the city and is down at present. Both the city and the company secured injunctions restraining each from bothering with the other. Both of these were disposed of and then court took a hand, granting an injunction to the company, pending a decision to be given after the submission of both sides of the case.

The ordinance laying out the sewer, he says, accepts the street as far as the city is concerned, but the recognition of this sewer by the company was not necessarily an acceptance by it of the street on which it was laid. The permission to construct this sewer was for that purpose only and not for the opening of a sixty-foot street across the tracks.

The judge affirms that the city has a perfect right to open a street across the right of way of the company, providing the proper steps are taken.
